

Profile

Felix Müller

Lecturer in Coaching and Behavioural Change

As coach, educator and leader, Felix supports people in reaching their goals using goal-oriented behaviour. He does this both at Henley Business School Germany and as an independent consultant.

Felix studied Business at the University of St. Gallen in Switzerland (lic.oec.HSG) and The Fuqua School of Business at Duke University in the United States (MBA) as well as Coaching & Behavioural Change at Henley Business School in the UK (MSc).

His coaching work focuses on Executive Coaching for Knowledge Workers and Career Coaching for Mid-Career Managers. He is an educator on self-awareness and self-leadership in the Executive MBA, the Business Insights Programmes and the Coaching Programme at Henley Business School Germany. He has more than twenty years of experience as leader in international organizations; currently, he is Managing Director of Henley Business School Germany in Munich. He works in English, German and French and regularly speaks and publishes on coaching and self-leadership topics.